Can you envision a world where we start each day from the viewpoint that everyone is inherently good? How would our lives transform if we looked into the face of each of our neighbors and saw the presence of the risen Christ in them?

As Christians, we're called to both imagine and co-create a world in which that inherent goodness is seen and honored. And folks in our parish and around the Episcopal Diocese of Long Island are living into this calling through Episcopal Ministries of Long Island (EMLI).

Right now, during the Episcopal Ministries Annual Appeal, you can play a vital role in ministries that are touching the lives of over 50,000 of our neighbors in need.

When you donate to EMLI, you become a vital part of this thriving and growing ministry network that is transforming our church into the Body of Christ.

Please make a commitment to these remarkable ministries today by making a gift to EMLI before Episcopal Ministries Sunday on May 5: episcopalministries.org/donate
